

Transitioning Back into the School Year: For Parents and Teachers

Back-To-School Must Haves

Transitions are difficult for all of us. The end of summer brings another transition of children going back to school, parents getting kids out the door, and teachers going back to teaching. Time Timer products can help transitions both at home and in the classroom.

For Parents

Using a Time Timer in your morning routine can be a game changer! If your audience is primarily parents here are some great ways Time Timer can help the morning run a little smoother.

For the kids who take too long getting ready:

Recommend the Time Timer PLUS 20 Minute for the bathroom counter. Sometimes brushing teeth, doing their hair, and getting dressed can take a little longer than it should. By setting the Time Timer PLUS 20 Minute your audience can make sure their kids aren't taking too long getting ready.

For the parents juggling it all:

Recommend the Time Timer MOD for parents to use in the morning while they juggle packing lunches, making breakfast, and getting themselves ready. The MOD is the perfect size to carry from room-to-room to make sure they stay on track.

For Educators

If your audience includes educators here are some ideas on how they can utilize the Time Timer to make their classrooms run a little smoother as they transition back.

For keeping the whole classroom on track:

Recommend the Time Timer Original 12" as the focal point of the classroom. By setting the Time Timer at the beginning of each activity, students will quickly pick up on the fact they can rely on it to know when the next transition is coming.

For the teacher during their planning period:

The Time Timer Original 3" is the perfect recommendation for teachers to keep on track during their planning period. It is the perfect size to set up on your desk. It also includes a free download of the Time Timer Desktop App so they can use the Time Timer on the computer as well.

We hope these recommendations help inspire some ideas on how to share Time Timer with your audience! And maybe they will help you and your family if you have children transitioning back to the classroom.
